JPNEWT 2003 Player of the Year

Liz Schwartzreich

Liz Schwartzreich learned to play pool while she was a student at Reed College in Portland, Oregon. In 2000 she finished the year as the Northwest Regional Tour's number-one ranked player. In 2001 she moved to New York City, where she has enjoyed the jump in the level of play around her, as well as the opportunity to learn the finer points of straight-pool. She is grateful for the wide selection of games available at Amsterdam Billiards, where she is a member of Team Amsterdam.

She is an accomplished 8-ball player, with numerous top-three finishes in the BCA's national events, and she also lays claim to a cache of regional 8-ball titles, including the 2001 New Jersey State Championship. She now plays regularly in WPBA events, where she is closing in on the top 32, and she hopes to achieve her touring pro status in 2004.

Away from pool, Liz works full time at Columbia University's Herbert Irving Cancer Center as a clinical research coordinator, overseeing breast cancer research studies. She enjoys doing yoga and playing on eBay. She lives with her boyfriend, Harry, and their cat in Astoria, Queens.
